Dear Kevin:

I am happy to confirm that Vollara and activTek are fully licensed and authorized by the Space Foundation to use the official Certified Space Technology seal for marketing and communications efforts in accordance with our certification agreement.

Furthermore Vollara and activTek products using Radiant Catalytic Ionization are the only such products recognized by the Space Foundation as Certified Space Technology. This recognition is to the exclusion of all other products and no other organization can claim this special and inclusive designation.

As a valued Corporate Patron level and Category Exclusive Space Certification Program partner Vollara and activTek play an important role in our mutual effort to improve public awareness and appreciation of how space technology enhances the quality of life for everyone here on Earth.

Best regards,
